HENRI'S OPINION.

Predicts Goebel's Election By a Big Majority.

Attaches But Little Importance to The Work of The Lexington Excursion.

Editor Henry Watterson has given to the New York Times his views on the political situation in Kentucky:

"The election of Mr. Goebel as Governor of Kentucky is as certain as anything on this side of the unknown." That was the declaration of Henry Watterson at the Waldorf-Astoria.

What will the anti-Goebel movement amount to?" the reporter asked.

"The anti-Goebel movement," replied Mr. Watterson, "is the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. Outside of that there is nothing to it whatever."

"As a matter of fact, there is no diversion in Kentucky whatever of the regular Democratic vote, and it will be rather increased by the John Y. Brown movement. I repeat that the Goebel ticket is as sure of its election as anything in nature."

"And what is your position, Colone?" the reporter inquired.

"I am," he answered, "supporting the regular ticket simply as a fact. It is one machine against another machine. I shall support the Democratic machine."

"I have no stock either in the Louisville & Nashville railroad or in the Democratic organization in Kentucky. I have heard of the proposed consolidation of the Louisville & Nashville and the Southern railroad, but that has nothing to do with the political fight on hand."

"Is there any anti-Bryan movement in Kentucky?" Mr. Watterson was asked.

"There is not," he rejoined, "the least anti-Bryan movement in Kentucky. I am seriously thinking of discounting Mr. Bryan's peculiar views with respect to silver and going in with Croker in proclaiming him the greatest of living Americans."

It is not believed any political resolutions will be entertained, as has been the case at some other associations. Dr. Jno. D. Clardy, for many years was moderator of the association and is still an active member of the body. He says it has never been the policy of the association to take part in political campaigns and that any visiting politician who might attempt to endorse or denounce any candidate for office would be sat upon in short order.

The association will meet in a neighborhood noted for its wealth and hospitality, and a very successful meeting is looked forward to.

DEAD AS HECTOR

When His Body Was Found Where It Fell.

Another Murder at Kennedy Saturday Night Over a Game of Craps.

Another killing occurred at Kennedy Saturday night.

As usual the tragedy was the result of a game of craps.

A gang of negroes were shooting craps in Mrs. Harris' woods, when a row came up between Creed Perkins and Jake Williams and Williams whipped out a pistol and sent a bullet crashing into Perkins' brain. The man was shot squarely in the forehead and dropped dead in his tracks.

Then the negroes present, one and all, took to their heels leaving the corpse lying in the woods.

Some one reported the murder and Sunday morning the dead body was found where it fell.

The murderer admits the killing and made no effort to escape, but witnesses are very scarce and hard to find. Many negroes have left the neighborhood to keep from telling what they know.

Both slayer and slain were young negroes, farm hands in the vicinity of Hinsleyton. Coroner Allessworth went to Hinsleyton Sunday and held an inquest. Perkins was still in the woods where he was killed.

Press Scott was the only witness who could be found.

He testified that they had been gambling and Perkins had been cursing and threatening Williams, and had drawn a pistol and said that he would kill Williams.

The verdict of the jury was death from a pistol wound in the forehead, from a weapon in the hands of Jake Williams. Williams was arrested, and delivered to jail by the coroner, on a charge of manslaughter.

Perkins was an ex-convict.

GRIFFIN-BREATHITT.

Miss Kate Breathitt Weds a Paducah Tobacconist.

Mr. Michael Griffin and Miss Kate Breathitt were married at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, Postmaster John W. Breathitt, on South Main.

Mr. Griffin was a resident of this city for year or two, being engaged in the tobacco business. About the first of the present year he moved to Paducah, where he is in the same business. He is widely known and universally popular. The bride is a young lady of many attractions and admirable traits. The fortunate groom is to be congratulated upon winning her hand. They will reside in Paducah.

There were ten couples of attendants and the affair was an exceptionally brilliant church wedding. It was followed by a reception at the bride's home. They are now touring in the East and will be at home at Oxford, Miss., after Sept. 15.

HINT TO FRUGAL WIVES.

How Their Savings May Be Taken by Their Husband's Creditors.

Economics effected by wives out of their "housekeeping money" are not such common incidents of domestic life that we can see them discouraged by judicial decision without a pang. We could have wished, therefore, that Commissioner Kerr had seen his way to protect the savings of Mrs. Gillett, the wife of a defendant who appeared before him, from the sweep of that mysteriously potent instrument of the acquisitive creditor which is known in the practice of the city of London as a "garnishee order." A firm of auctioneers having obtained a judgment against Mr. Gillett, sought to "attach" certain moneys standing in his name in the books of the London, City, and Midland bank in satisfaction of their claim. The bank officials admitted that they had £50 in their hands belonging to the defendant, but the latter contended that the sum in question was not his, but his wife's, who had managed, by the exercise of much frugality, to save it out of the housekeeping money, and not having anything else to do with it, had asked her husband to "mind it for her."

It was while he was thus "minding it" that the creditors above named obtained their judgment against him, and applied for its assignment to them in liquidation of the debt. The learned commissioner ruled that the money was the husband's, and therefore the garnishee proceedings must succeed, which, of course, meant judgment for the plaintiffs, with costs. This decision, however correct in law, is fraught, we fear, with peril to the prosperity, if not the peace, of the home. Either it will deter wives from practicing the virtue of frugality in the management of their households, or it will determine them never in future to make their husbands their bankers; and neither of these results is to be welcomed. Or, what is, perhaps, a still more probable consequence, it will inspire the economical housewife with a heroic resolve not to bank her savings at all. It is only too likely to occur to her that if there is this danger of her economics being brought within the clutch of a garnishee order, the garnishing had better begin nearer home. She will feel that the contents of a newly stocked wardrobe will, at any rate, be safe from her husband's creditors, and her savings, instead of "fructifying" in the marital pocket, will be sunk in unproductive expenditure upon hats and frocks.—London Telegraph.

BOSS OF CHICKEN THIEVES.

Owns up to Having Stolen 1,000 Since the Beginning of Spring

The prize chicken thief, after four months' immunity from arrest, has been caught in this city and turned over to the authorities of Rockingham county, wherein most of his depredations were committed. He is 21 years old and his name is Albert C. Smith. He says he never stole chickens before this spring, but according to his confession he has done little else since. Assisted by his brother, Albert dressed the stolen fowls at their place at Bunker Hill, in the town of Auburn, and marketed them in this city. Albert says he would take only the choicer selections in a henhouse.

Like some noted highwaymen, Smith disdained to rob the poor and confined his depredation to the hen-roosts of the well-to-do. He and his brother did not respect the cloth, however, for among their victims are clergymen, deacons and schoolmasters. They never robbed, except after long intervals, in the same place. When arrested Albert told Deputy Chief Cassidy that it he would let him go who would give him $20. The deputy was not trading. Smith had money with him. He also had a wagon load of fowls which he was marketing, and the low prices asked led the marketmen to suspect him and call the police. Inspector Hildreth did the trick of fooling Albert into making a confession, or, as the police believe, a partial confession, of what he had done in stealing poultry. The roosts which he robbed are scattered over the towns of Londonderry, Raymond, Derry, Auburn, Chester, Candia and Brentwood. The victims number about forty farmers or villagers and the number of chickens stolen and sold by Smith and his brother foot up 1,000, making a couple tons of poultry. All these they have killed, dressed and distributed among the markets of Manchester.

Smith kept a book telling where he obtained the poultry and where he disposed of it, and was otherwise methodical in his methods. How the precious pair managed to make wholesale raids on flocks as noisy as hens without disturbing the owners and how they traveled long distances in the country with out exciting suspicion are mysteries which Albert declined to explain.—[Manchester, N. H., special.]

TWO CHICKS FROM SAME EGG

For Three Weeks They Were Fed on Malted Milk and Brandy.

A rather unusual sight was witnessed recently during a visit to a poultry farm near the "Heart of the Commonwealth." Two chickens from the same egg are here, and as they have already lived five weeks and are apparently as well as any of the others, the chances are that they will grow up and become healthful members of poultry society. The owner says he has already received an offer of $25 for the pair, but prefers to keep the chickens. His attention was called to them first when he saw two bills trying to break out through the shell. The egg containing the twins was carefully removed, and the two infant chickens were given their first sight of the world. They were wrapped up in cotton batting and were placed in the oven of the kitchen stove, and kept there for some time.

For the first three weeks they were not allowed to go out of doors, and were fed on malted milk and brandy served to them from a medicine dropper. The little fowls are now strong and able to look after themselves, and run about in a large yard with a hundred or more of their relatives.

One peculiarity about the chickens which by the way, are of the variety known as Buff Brahma, is their extreme exclusiveness. They have nothing whatever to do with the others, and are constantly together. Where one is seen, the other is sure to be within a foot or two of it. If one of them is picked up, or separated from the other, both start in calling to each other, and keep this up until the one which has been taken up is placed on the ground. Then they immediately "join forces" and start off on a foraging trip.

The owner of this remarkable pair of chickens says that he has written to the publishers of two poultry magazines, and has received word that he has been particularly fortunate in keeping these twins alive as long as he has. Instances of two chickens from one egg have been reported before, but it has never been proved, so it is said, that they lived more than seven or eight days.—Boston Transcript.

Unique Somnambulism
One of the most singular cases of somnambulism that has for several days mystified the police of Alleghany City has been cleared. One night, about a week ago, a number of wagons disappeared from the stables of the O'Neil company. From three to eight vehicles would disappear at a time, and Eugen Speichl, a driver, who slept in the barn, was nearly distracted to know how the vehicles could be removed every night and he not catch the intruder. The police were interested in the matter, and the other night two express wagons were found standing a block or two away, and another vehicle farther down the street. Then there was seen coming a United States mail wagon, drawn by Speichl. Patrolman Shaw caught the half-exhausted man and a struggle ensued. Speichl finally relaxed his hold on the policeman's throat, and, arising, said: "Is that you, Shaw? Where am I? I was sleeping." Speichl's words cleared the mystery.—Philadelphia Press.

THE NEW YORK WORLD,

THREE-A-WEEK EDITION.

PRACTICALLY A DAILY AT THE PRICE OF A WEEKLY.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the overwhelming popularity of THE THREE-A-WEEK WORLD to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars and, moreover, has reported them as promptly and fully as if they were daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world, with our troops operating in the Philippines, and the great Presidential campaign too, hand, its value is further increased.

The motto of THE THREE-A-WEEK WORLD is improvement. It strives each year to be better than it was the year before, and the public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers every week as any other newspaper, not a daily, published in America.

ANIMAL COMMUNITIES.

Causes Which Govern Their Movements

—An Elaborate Study.

The schooling, swarming, herding or flocking of animals presents a fascinating subject, and the causes which govern the various movements constitute an elaborate study. Recently the writer while duck shooting in a California tule swamp became so interested in the flocking of birds that he forgot the ducks. Before the blind extended hundreds of acres of tule swamp which resounded with the notes of the blackbirds. As the sun rose, there was a concerted movement among the birds, and as near as could be judged from 500 to 1,000 birds would rise, as though a signal had been sounded, and sweep on, filling the air with their sounds, then as suddenly drop into the tules on the edge of the swamp. This appeared to be the rendezvous, as though some general officer was appointing the birds to certain farms and ranches for the day, as from this spot other divisions, each composed of hundreds, rose as one bird, flying off in different directions—a proceeding which was kept up for several hours until every man within five miles must have received its flock of red-winged blackbirds.

Many of the birds appear to form in flocks at the time of migration. The Pacific brown pelican is prone to fly in flocks of ten to fifty, while its cousin of the Gulf of Mexico is to some extent a solitary bird.

Among the fishes the swarming or schooling is practically noticeable. The herrings, sardines and their allies are always banded together, in all probability for mutual support, and the study of a school is an interesting pastime. The fishes seem governed by some one impulse, and the greatest order is preserved; the school hurrying up, down, or to the side as is in their undoing. The writer has seen a small seal so intimated a large school that they were concentrated into a ball of living fish not ten feet across. The seal swam around them with great velocity, preventing their escape, occasionally dashing into them with wide-open mouth.

The California barracuda is always found in schools, filling the water for acres. The Gulf of Mexico species is a solitary fish. In the Pacific the yellow-tail schools often cover the water for acres, then breaking up into pairs or trios. So with the horse mackerel; thousands frequently being found schooling.

Among the mammals the collection of vast numbers is best illustrated by the American bison, which was, and which now, owing to the most outrageous vandalism ever perpetrated in a civilized land, is almost extinct. The bison fairly covered miles of country, presenting a marvelous sight.

The most extraordinary collection of animals to be seen in America are the fur seals which gather at the Pribilof islands in spring, at the breeding season, later going to sea, and south in February and March, as far as the Santa Barbara islands, several having been observed at Santa Catalina during the present year, a sea migration of many hundred miles being taken each year.

A very similar movement is seen among the penguins of the South Pacific islands. At times what is supposed to be millions of birds are found on the island; later they disappear completely, making an ocean trip to some unknown land or set for unknown purposes and reasons.—Scientific American.

Sonorous Waves of Vowel Sounds.

At a recent meeting of the Academie des Sciences of Paris, M. Marage showed traces of the sonorous waves given by vowel sounds. They were obtained by means of "sensitive flames," that is, flames which are sensitive to sounds. They are serrated lines with a curious resemblance to the teeth of some animals. I and E give the smoothest lines, and O, OU, and A the roughest. M. Marage finds that phonographs speak badly because the sounds are not distinctly printed on the cylinder, and he recommends that the mouthpiece and tube of the instrument should be discarded, and the usual plate of glass, or diaphragm, replaced by one which does not give its own, or "proper," note. The impressions on the cylinder

TAG ON HORSEBACK.

How Some Quiet Nursery Games Are Played in Wyoming

Here's a way to have a little exciting sport if you are a good horseman. Take several fellows on horseback—girls are not necessarily barred, but it is not in any sense a girl's game—ride into some field and play tag on horseback. The smaller the field the better the opportunity for displaying good horsemanship, as it will necessitate more tricks and quicker turning. The way they play the game out in Wyoming the one who is "it" has to touch only the horse, but this is more dangerous than touching the rider, for the horse, thinking you mean to strike, will often plunge and kick viciously.

Of course, polo ponies are the best for this game, but any horse if properly ridden can be made to understand the game in a short time. It is a fact that the horses very often get as much interested as the riders and will sometimes get very much excited and kick at an approaching horse to keep the one who is "it" at a distance. Cross tag and "pussey wants a corner" can be played in the same way, although not with the most experienced riders should try the latter, as collisions are very liable to occur. In Wyoming this was a favorite sport in the Green river country, but they have plenty of rough games in Wyoming that should never be brought east of the Rocky mountains. Tag on horseback is really a very good game, but great care should be taken at all times to prevent accidents.—N. Y. Herald.

HOW TO CUT AN APPLE.

And Leave the Skin Intact—Startling But Simple Trick.

To cut an apple in two or more pieces without also dividing the skin seems an impossible feat, but that it can be performed with comparative ease anybody following the directions here given will testify. Apples are so common a fruit that they figure on every well organized dinner-table, and the little trick, when performed as an after-dinnerfeat, is really quite startling.

An apple with a firm, smooth skin should be selected. Take a long, slender darning needle and thread it with silk or cotton. Lined thread is best.

Begun at the stem and take a long stitch under the skin of the apple, being careful not to go so deep that the point of the needle does not readily emerge. Take another stitch in the same direction, sewing right around the apple, exactly as you would cut it in half.

When the thread comes out again near the stem, take the two ends in each hand, cross them and pull steadily. The thread will, of course, cut the apple in two, leaving no mark on the skin, and without breaking it beyond the tiny holes made by the needle, which are quite invisible. By repeating the performance in different parts of the apple it may be cut into quarters and eighths, and on being pulled will fall into these sections.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

Contract Between Those of City and Country Strongly Marked.

When we look into the question of expenditures for school purposes, and the salaries of the teachers, the superiority of city possibilities in education is very marked. The annual expenditures per capita for all public school purposes in cities of 8,000 population and upwards is $3.77; outside of such cities, $2.10. The contrast is even more strongly marked in the distinctly rural portions of the country. For instance, in the rural districts of the South Atlantic states the annual expenditure is only 93 cents per capita, and in the south central states 91 cents per capita. In the cities in these two sections it is respectively $2.42 and $1.93 per capita. It is a remarkable and interesting fact that the cities of Montana head the list with a per capita expenditure of $6.85. The cities of Massachusetts come next with $5.06, and New York is third with $4.75. Alabama is at the foot of the list, with 96 cents per capita in the cities and 32 in the country districts. North and South Carolina and Florida are but little better.—Gunton's Magazine.

HAS NATURE WARNED YOU?

What Nature has done in the early days of spring, blossoms forth trees and flowers causing the despondent chord to vibrate to this, the first symptom of disease. If you feel the forewarning of Chills, Malaria and Typhoid fever, you should not be surprised when you feel it is an indication of sickness; avoid this. Call on your druggist and procure a bottle of Dr. Caristed's German Liver Powder. Take this powder three times a day, and after procuring a bottle of Yucatan Chili Tonic, you will consider these two great remedies, you will feel like the flowers out in the spring, when the atmosphere is full of germs. If necessary, when the system warns you, take the above. These remedies in stock and sold by

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as usually give in such cases, but not giving the result we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child was sick for about ten days and was having about twenty gey operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were soon convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Typhoid Remedy was recommended, and I ordered a quart. I soon noticed a change for the better, by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly well.

The Taylor campaign will be opened at London, Laurel county, to day with all of the Republican candidates on hand.

The Henderson Gleaner says there are only four Democratic dailies in the State west of Louisville and omits from its list the Fulton Leader, one of the staunchest party organs to be found anywhere.

Mr. Brown's proposition to withdraw if Goebel will quit the race in the midst of his campaign is nonsense reduced to assininity. If he wants harmony let him propose to join Goebel in submitting their claims to the Democrats of any county in the State and abide the result.

Kid McCoy, middle weight champion, was knocked out in the first round at Chicago Friday night by Jack McCormack, a "dub" pupil of the third class. It is claimed by McCoy's friends that the "Kid" was over-confident and underestimated his opponent, who suddenly landed a knockout blow on the jawbone that ended the fight.

A "Fine Athletic Club for Women," is the leading article for the September number of Demoret's Magazine. There is no finer women's athletic club in the world than the one the Chicago society women have organized. An interesting account is given of the formation and resources of the club, accompanied by excellent photographs of the social and athletic departments, and of the president, Mrs. Philip D. Armour.

Editor Clarence C. Givens made a small fortune this year out of the Hopkins county fair. He rented the grounds and ran the fair as a private enterprise and the attendance beat all previous records, going to nearly 9000 on the best day. The present grounds have been sold and will be destroyed, but new grounds will likely be procured and larger and better buildings erected by another year.

Gov. Miles B. McSweeney, of South Carolina, was formerly a newsboy on the streets of Charleston. From newsboy he became a printer's devil and by a vote of the printers of Charleston was awarded a scholarship in Washington and Lee University, offered to the most deserving young printer in Charleston." He could not pay his board and had to leave school after a few months. Returning home he acted as secretary of the Typographical Union and also of a Hook & Ladder Co., and when he had saved $65 went into business and started a country paper at Ninety-Six in 1879. He rapidly rose to prominence and became Governor in twenty years.

LOOK FOR THE LANDSLIDE.

Such crowds as are coming together to hear Goebel and Blackburn were never witnessed before in the history of Kentucky politics in a State race. In fact, for the length of time before the election the crowds surpass in size and enthusiasm the gatherings of the unparalleled year of 1896, and as the magnificent platform of the party is explained and the character of the opposition to Goebel made known the determination of the people to win becomes more intense and earnest from day. When Democracy gets her back up and clears up the lies and slanders that have been maliciously circulated on her splendid standard bearer, look out for landslides when the ides of November come.—Nelson Record.

Mr. Brown has attempted to evade the force of the statements of Hon. Frank Peak and Dr. McClasky that he told them July 7 that he would make speeches for Goebel, by a card in which he claims that he said he would speak in October if he took the stump. Mr. Peak has given out another interview reiterating the truth of his statement and denying that any "if" was used to qualify Mr. Brown's direct statement. Dr. McClasky backs up Peak's statement with an affidavit. On the question of veracity Mr. Brown has been placed at a disadvantage.

D. W. Vanderveer, of Lincoln county, who was nominated for Commissioner of Agriculture by the bolters, is a fine old gentleman, but the nomination is almost as much of a joke as that of Capt. Throckmorton of the L. & N., for the same office by the Republicans. Neither knows anything about the wants of farmers and their lack of knowledge of agriculture would fill several volumes.—Stanford Journal.

ALL AROUND MAN.

Harry McChesney Winning Lawyer as a Spellbinder.

That Harry McChesney, the Democratic nominee for Superintendent of Public Instruction, is a good fellow everybody who knows him at all concedes. But that he is a natural-born campaign orator and story teller it has remained for this campaign to develop. Mr. McChesney is making a great hit wherever he goes. Senator Blackburn heard him at Mayfield the other day, and before McChesney finished the Senator turned to Mr. Goebel and said: "Well, there's a man I'll keep until November." McChesney runs Col. W. P. Thorne, of Eminence, a close road on funny stories and campaign drolleries. If it is worth walking ten miles to hear Thorne, it is worth walking nine to hear McChesney and his anecdotes. He will be almost steadily on the stump under direction of Senator Blackburn, Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee.

R. Q. Mills' Wealth.

Roger Q. Mills has sold a small tract of land near Corsicana, Tex., to the Standard Oil Company for $350,000. Mills is a native of Christian county and the people of this section have followed with pride his career in public life. He has been an honor to his country. Endowed with wealth of mind he has always been poor in purse. It will delight his friends and admirers everywhere to know that this lucky chance has assured comfort to his declining years.—Clarksville Journal.

AFTER BROWN.

Gobel Pays His Respects to Him at Wat Hardin's Home.

At Harrodsburg Saturday before an audience of 2,000 people Senator Goebel had some interesting things to say on the subject of the recent Lexington convention. Mr. Goebel charged that John Young Brown, the nominee of the Lexington convention for Governor, on the day that the Louisville convention nominated a candidate for Governor, and only a few hours before that nomination was made, procured the publication in the Louisville Times of an article designed to stampede the convention to Brown by suggesting him as the best solution of the situation then existing within the convention at Music Hall. This publication, he charged, was made at the special request of Mr. Brown, conveyed through the Hon. C. C. McChord, the Democratic nominee for Railroad Commissioner in this district. He also accused the ex-governor of insincerity in his present denunciation of the election law, pointing out the fact that Mr. Brown made speeches in behalf of Judge Hobson, who ran for Judge of the Court of Appeals as an avowed upholder of the election law, his election to the Appellate bench fixing the law firmly in the statutes by giving a majority on the bench in its favor.

Medical Education In Kentucky.

The State Board of Health of Kentucky gives notice to all concerned that it will hereafter refuse to recognize, as a basis for certificates to practice medicine, diplomas from any medical college which does not, in good faith, comply with the requirements of the American Medical College Association, the American Institute of Homeopathy and the American Eclectic Medical College Association, respectively, both as to preliminary education and four years' course of study. This means that no school that graduates three year students will be recognized in this State hereafter.

The Board provided an examination for three year graduates of the present year, as many of the students had attended such schools in ignorance of its advanced requirements, but found this course unsatisfactory, a large per cent of the examinations indicating incomplete preliminary education as well as imperfect medical training. This standard for the State of Kentucky was made and promulgated in 1891, to take effect this year, but is again published that schools patronized by Kentucky students, and future graduates expecting to practice here, may fully understand our requirements.

Very respectfully,
J. N. MCCORMACK, Sec'y.

Why it Failed.

Of the Roberts local option bill the editor of the Murray Ledger, who seems to thoroughly understand it, says: "The bill with this silly unconstitutional features eliminated was all right, but if it had passed in its unconstitutional form last session the prohibition extremists would have had the distinguished honor of having been the cause of whisky being sold in every county and hamlet in Kentucky for two years, or until another legislature met to make new laws. Fanatics and cranks never realize that in attempting to better good laws they are often made worse."

As Charlie Barker Sees It.

Mr. Chas. E. Barker, of Pembroke, writes to the Owensboro Messenger: "Since writing you some time ago, I have looked around a good deal, and I am now confident that Mr. Goebel will get more votes than Mr. Bryan got in 1896, more than Cleveland ever got, and more than any other man in the state could have gotten had he been nominated. The 'Brownies' have no following at all here, only some men who bolt annually—who kick simply because they have the jackassical inclination. Mr. Goebel will meet a hearty welcome here in Christian county."

Bob West Goes Gunning.

Mr. Rob. A. West, deputy constable, shot at two negroes who were caught in his field one night last week stealing "roasting ears." He heard one of them cry out, but both escaped. The next morning a trail of blood was discovered. The gun was loaded with bird shot.

SUMMER CATARRH

Catarrh of the lungs, because it is most prevalent in the summer months, is called summer catarrh.

It troubles many that bowel trouble is catarrhal. Dr. Hartman's book is to the plain.

Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for them. They tell all about catarrh and how Peru-na cures it wherever located.

"I had chronic diarrhea for fifteen years," writes

T. E. Miller, Grand Prairie, Tex.: "I tried many medicines and doctors in vain. Atlast I was recommended, and it relieved and cured me at once."

Mr. John Harting, 633 Main St., Columbus, O., writes: "My wife took my Peru-na for chronic diarrhea and it cured us. No doctor or medicine we tried before helped us."

Mr. Edward Wormack, Ledbetter, Tex., writes: "Peru-na for bowel trouble is the best medicine I ever used by anything in my experience. I owe my life to Peru-na, and shall always recommend it to those suffering as I was."

Mr. John Edgerton, 1020 Third Ave., Altoona, Pa., says: "I suffered from dysentery for three years. I took Peru-na and am now well."

A Jailer's Plucky Boy.

Alex Ashby is something of a peace officer himself. He is only twelve years old, but last night he arrested two boys, Dudy Johnson and Bud Robinson, who had run away from jail, and marched them back and locked them up. He captured them at the Texas depot. They had been at work in the jail yard and ran away.—Owensboro Invoker.

Where the digestion is good, and the general powers of the system in a healthy state, worms can find no habitation in the human body. WHITE'S CREAM VERIFLUCE not only destroys every worm; but corrects all derangements of the digestive organs. Price 25 cts. R. C. Hardwick.

SURPRISE WEDDING.

Mayfield Girl Marries an Acquaintance of Few Days.

Miss Nannie Cloyes, of Mayfield, was married at 9 o'clock Wednesday night to Mr. John Haskell, superintendent of the round house at Houston, Tex. The wedding was at the bride's home and was a surprise to every one. They left the next morning for Texas. Mr. Haskell was visiting a brother there and the wedding was quite a romance, he having only met the bride a few days since.

Chicken Language.

Chickens speak in a language that human ears learn readily to comprehend. For the most part it is instinctive. A fuzzy toddler six hours out of the shell has five distinct calls. The first and loudest of them is the lost note, uttered when it loses sight of its mother or finds itself out in the cold. It is loud and very shrill: "Pee-ee-p! Pee-ee-p! Pee-ee-p!" The second, the hunger note, is as shrill, but more plaintive, running somewhat thus: "Yee-p! Yeeap! Yee-eap!" As soon as eating begins it changes to a sort of satisfied chittering: "Wit-wit! Wit-wit! Wit-wit-wee!" After eating the chicks grow sleepy, and cry to be covered. The note is somewhat like that of hunger with a peculiar tremolo, breaking in the middle: "Yee-p! Yeeap! Yee-p! Yee-p!" This does not fully represent it, but comes as near as the limitations of vowels and consonants admit. The fifth note, the thirr'-r' of fright or astonishment, is the quaintest of all. This chirr develops at last in the grating call of warning, at sound of which from their mother even the youngest scatter and scatter to cover. Anything, a bird, a kite, even a small passing cloud, sailing in the sky overhead, will evoke this warning cry. Let one hen sound it, every other will take it up. Often the alarm is a false one, but centuries of hawks have impressed upon each feathered mind that danger "cometh out of the air" and they govern themselves accordingly.

Everybody knows how hens cluck to their broods, but it may be news to many that though a hundred hens may be clucking in the same inclosure, the voice of each will be individual and unmistakable to her immediate family. A chick just out of the nest may not be able to discriminate, but let it fowl for a day and it is past making mistakes. Even more wonderful is the hen's ability to differentiate her brood from all the rest.

Upon finding tood a hen calls her chicks something thus: "Co-co-coo-cu-cu-cu!" The rooster calls his wives about him to share in some daintiness with nearly the same notes, but deeper and more resonant in the beginning and running at the end into a high treble. There is something clownish in his cackle. He cackles only to express a pained astonishment, or else by way of chorusing the hens, with whom cackling is a favorite diversion, quite independent of the matter of egg-laying. A rooster, especially a cockerel or one of Spanish breed, has a wonderful variety of crows. By means of them, indeed, he runs the whole gamut of expression—hope, fear, defiance, triumph, love, hate, rage vanity and a fine, ineffable conceit.

It is the hens with families, though, that are the true barnyard gossips. Any fine day, outside molting time, you may see them standing in groups their heads close together, chattering and chattering like so many blackbirds, or else wallowing in light earth, pecking lightly as they scratch and wallow, and evidently finding it good sport to throw dust well over each other.—N. Y. Sun.

THE HANDWRITING EXPERT.

His Inspection of a Disputed or Suspected Document.

When a piece of disputed or suspected handwriting is submitted to an expert his first care is to note its general appearance. He observes what seem to be the characteristic habits of hand in the writer, the style, shading and connection of letters, their relation to the base line of the writing and other significant points. The same process is applied to specimens of the alleged writer's genuine hand.

The next step is to disintegrate the writing so that letters repeated in both specimens may be compared in detail when placed side by side. In this way divergences or resemblances, which might not appear to the eye in the body of a paper, are made perfectly clear. If any of the letters show signs of hesitation or retouching, as frequently happens in forgeries, they are photographed through the microscope. By this enlargement retouches or tracings are brought out that they can be plainly seen by the untrained eye.

Having made his examination of the whole writing, step by step, the expert summarizes the results, numbering corresponding parts and calling attention to discrepancies or resemblances as they occur. By this process his conclusions are made perfectly clear in all ordinary cases to anybody who reads his report. In exceptional cases, such as court trials, he may go before a jury with blackboard and pencil and show exactly how a forger wrote a certain letter as well as the way in which the person whose writing habitually formed it. If his deductions are accurate, the results, presented in this graphic manner, usually are convincing to all intelligent and unprejudiced observers. It is one of the advantages of graphology that, ordinarily, its conclusions may be made as plain as the nose on a man's face.—Daniel T. Ames, in Ainslee's.

A LITTLE SURPRISE.

The Mortification of High Social Ambition.

A certain Mme. S., a woman of high social ambition, returning from the country to town one day in a railway carriage, fell into conversation with a well-dressed but quiet and reserved man who sat on the seat opposite.

After awhile she chanced to mention impressively that she had observed that Countess L.—was a passenger in the next carriage, and she found that the gentleman to whom she had been talking was intimately acquainted with her. Of the countess' establishment and circle of friends he told her a great many interesting particulars.

So pleased was she with the talk on this subject—proving her new acquaintance, she thought, to be a man of high position in society—that she ventured to make what was even for her a bold stroke, and, asking him for his card, politely requested the pleasure of his company at her next soiree.

The train arrived. Mme. S. alighted on the platform with the countess. She looked to see the familiar recognition she expected between the lady of rank and her new friend. But what was her surprise when the countess, holding up her finger, beckoned unceremoniously to him and said:

"John, see to the luggage!" He was the countess' man servant.—London Tit-Bits.

COMFORTING CONSOLATION.

Art of Letter Writing Before and After Marriage.

"You don't write to me as you used to," she said to her husband, who had returned from a business journey out of town.

"I meant to write," he answered, remorsefully, "but I was so busy I really did not have the time."

"And yet, before we were married, I used to get every so many letters."

"Well, I wasn't so much occupied then with looking out for bills on the 1st of the month, my dear."

"Sometimes you would write things to me that were really poetic. But I suppose it is the old story. It is very seldom that sentiment survives matrimony."

"Now, look here, Amanda," he replied, "you ought not to talk that way. I suppose you do miss those letters about journeying together along the road of life and having our pathway strewn with flowers, and if I ever get a few minutes leisure I'll try my hand at it again, just to please you. But don't forget this—the little compositions I dedicate to you every now and then in my check book may not mean as much as those others, but they are a great deal more trustworthy."—London Tit-Bits.

BROWN'S PROPHECY.

Extract From His Valedictory
Four Years Ago.

Four years ago in this city, says the Frankfort Argus, at the conclusion of Gov. Brown's valedictory on retiring from the Executive chair, he spoke as follows:

"Never since I first voted have I ever faltered to the party call; and I want to say, although we are today participating in the inauguration of Republican supremacy—in the name of Democracy, in the name of that party I loved and cherished in youth and manhood—I tell you Democracy is not dead but sleeping. (Great applause.) Not dead but sleeping; and four years from now—take my word—we will rally and we will come from the lanes and the valleys and the brush, and you will on this spot witness the inauguration of the supremacy of the party. (Great applause.) You will be called back here to witness the supremacy of the party in this glorious State. I bid you adieu."

ARMLESS EDITOR.

Aaron Smith Operates a Typewriter With His Toes.

Aaron Smith, editor and manager of the Mt. Pleasant, (Tex.) Times Review, is the only armless editor of a newspaper in the United States. Notwithstanding this he turns out "copy" as fast as any veteran in the business, and manipulates a typewriter with a rapidity calculated to arouse the envy of any stenographer.

He writes at an ordinary desk by holding a pen with his toes.

He uses a typewriter by punching the keys with a pencil held in his mouth or with his toes, and makes excellent speed in this manner.

He lives in a cozy little home which he recently bought, and is apparently as happy as any man one could find. He is not gloomy, as one would expect to find him, but, is, on the other hand, lively, witty and contented. Mr. Smith is married and has one child.

WEST KENTUCKY EDITORS.

ALMOST A BURGLARY.

By Fred Small, Jr.

MRS. DRISCOLL had a mind of her own, and said the letters of the alphabet backward.

She heard the village clock slowly strike the hour of midnight, then one, two and three.

Kate's apartment was dark, but the moon shone dimly into her aunt's room just across the hall.

Silence. No form stood in the doorway, then vanished within.

Was it the tramp? Was that something in his hand a knife?

Kate stoled softly through the doorway, listening breathlessly. Then she darted into a small room, near Mrs. Driscoll's door.

Suddenly the door was noiselessly closed, and Kate stood so near her hiding place that she could hear his heavy breathing.

The faint odor of chloroform told why the door was closed.

What if he gave an overdose?

Kate loved the stern woman, and notwithstanding her timidity, that thought served her to action.

She sprang from the room with a shrill cry, clutching both hands in the hair of the intruder. It is needless to say that the intruder was a tramp.

"Wait," said the sternly lady, "the day before the wedding." "The thing is ready, and I must say that I never saw preparations more complete—not even for your uncle's funeral poor man! I always meant to give you a handsome marriage portion, so get your hat—we'll go."

What girl would delay under similar circumstances?

The service was speedily ordered, and soon stopped before the bank.

Except the bank officials, there was in the building only George Travis, one of Kate's discarded suitors, who was getting an insignificant check cashed.

Mrs. Driscoll was not slow to see an opportunity to flutter her sails, as her worthy husband had been accustomed to do.

Drawing her check book she smilingly wrote a check for $2,000 and presented it to the cashier.

"Payable to Miss Kate—a marriage portion, I presume." "Ah, very generous of you! Miss Kate, I congratulate you," said the cashier. "Shall I make the new book in your own name?"

"She wants no book—at least not yet," said Mrs. Driscoll. "With a good, solid money for that check—bright yellow gold."

"But—why—you live fully a mile from a neighbor. Have you—do you think of the temptation?" he said, hesitating.

"Did I ask your advice?" snapped Mrs. Driscoll. "I am able to take care of my own property, and if it will not break the bank, I want it."

"Certainly, madam. My conscience is clear if you wake up to find yourself murdered to-morrow morning. This bank can pay ten times that sum at sight, madam," was the dignified reply, to which Mrs. Driscoll listened in court silence.

The cashier went into the vault, closing the door behind him.

George Travis, having counted the money received on his check, went without a glance at the two ladies.

"There!" Now, I reckon, Travis begins to realize what he has lost," nodded Mrs. Driscoll.

Kate blushed slightly.

"But, aunt," she said, uneasily, "wouldn't it be better for me to take a book with the money left to my credit? I have not yet been here until tomorrow, and—think of the risk!"

"How long is it since I came to be told my duty by a miss of 15?" breathed Mrs. Driscoll, scornfully. "What a coward you are! If you don't want the money, say so, and I'll let it remain where it is. If you do want it, hold your tongue, and help me take care of it until I can give you both into Harry Winship's keeping."

Further conversation was prevented by the cashier's return.

He carried a strong iron box.

"Count it!" commanded Mrs. Driscoll.

"The household arose and went about its tasks. Visitors came and went. Kate kept her secret well.

George Travis, having counted the money received on his check, went without a glance at the two ladies.

"Get up, child! It's your wedding day. You are in danger of pneumonia," called her mother.

Kate shut the window and helped the lady to dress, touching her hair with dainty, soothng fingers as she arranged it.

George Travis, having counted the money received on his check, went without a glance at the two ladies.

"As you please. I've had my say about it, and no harm came of it, either," was the tart reply.

No one knew of the tragedy which did not take place in the silent watch of the night.

Now it was time to Kate, resting in her husband's clasp as the train sped onward, told him the story in her own way and time.

"But the baby—did you save it? It is a clever," he said, quickly.

"I burned it," was the calm reply.

"I did not need to save it, for I knew whose it was. I always thought he'd beamed at her."

"Please let me give you a receipt for it and put it into the safe to-night," suggested the cashier.

"Put it into my carriage!" was the sharp order to the bank porter.

The man obeyed and watched with a pained face the carriage out of sight.

"She beats all I ever saw," he said.

"I don't wonder her husband died."

Meanwhile Mrs. Driscoll returned home to bathe with the world and herself in particular.

She had had her own way.

"I shall not put this under my pillow as I generally do," she said to Kate.

"This box is harder than feathers. I shall put it under the corner of your bed."

"Soon a figure clothed in rags went by the open window."

The man turned and shook his clenched fist at the astonished lady.

"Of all things! The impudent thing!" she gasped.

"Oh, but aunt, I'm sure he has heard all that we said about that horrid Mulhooly."

"Mulhooly!" faltered Kate.

Mrs. Driscoll's face told the concern which she felt, as she turned her back upon her niece and took up a book.

Darkness came.

The lights in the house were extinguished at the usual time.

Kate could not sleep. In vain she counted slowly from one hundred to one, and said the letters of the alphabet backward.

AN AFRICAN LAKE.

Interesting Report of an Exploration to Tropical Mountain.

At a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society in London an interesting report by Mr. Poulett Weatherley on Lake Bangwensu, in Central Africa, was read. The explorer circumnavigated the entire sheet of water. His party reached the lake in August, 1896, and established a camp at the southeastern corner, 3,765 feet above sea level. The shores of the lake are absolutely free from shells and the water has no depth. He sounded in many places, but never found more than 15 feet. Its surface was usually still, a very strong wind raising the smallest sea. It appears to be nothing but a flooded district. Mr. Weatherley thinks it was formed by the water from the great watershed of the Tanganyika plateau. The overflow is checked to the west and southwest by a rim of rock, but the east and southeast has no such barrier, and in that direction there is a vast swamp from 20 to 40 miles wide. The Liposochi and Luena to the east are the chief contributors to the water supply. With 25 men he explored the island of M'bawala, about 20 miles long and 1,000 yards from the shore, and proceeded toward the outlet of the Luacapul, ultimately landing at Kirui island. After a stay of some time on the island, which they found low, beautifully wooded, well peopled and cultivated, they passed on to Kisi island. This they found not a bit like the island depicted on the maps. It presented a most peaceful, prosperous sight, and in common with the other two islands, Kirui and M'bawala, it reared a good number of sheep, the broad-tailed kind, and goats. The people appeared to live a life of complete peace and contentment. Proceeding in a northerly direction, the party reached the extreme north-western corner of the lake. Continuing their journey along the coast, they discovered a narrow peninsula stretching north and south, having on the west a sheet of water about three miles in width, which extends the whole length of Bangwensu north and south, but is always separated from the lake by the isthmus. There was cotton everywhere, but not in large quantity, and the bark-cloth tree abounded.

CAN YOU BE MESMERIZED?

About One Person in Ten Is Susceptible to the Influence.

It is absurd to deny the phenomena of mesmerism, and yet it is not a science, while its claims are usually urged by charlatans. Mesmerism may be defined as a power which a stronger is supposed to be able to exert over a weaker person, or a healthy over a diseased, whereby, through a mere expression of the will, in some cases, but more generally by an accompanying striking with the hands, the former throws the latter into a state of sleep.

During this state certain peculiar sensations are experienced, which arise from nervous excitement, and may have a good effect on the health of the patient. The state of clairvoyance is, it is contended, a higher degree of the mesmeric process, wherein the patient claims to possess a power of vision which extends to all objects, near and at a distance, in space and in time.

The dispassionate investigation of this subject has been shunned by most men of science on account of the imposture of some and the credulity of others of its professors. Electrobiology is only another form which the public exhibition of animal magnetism has assumed. Sleep is produced by making persons gaze for a certain length of time on a piece of money which is placed in the hand.

In susceptible individuals this produces a kind of cataleptic sleep, in which they exhibit all the phenomena of the mesmeric state. About one person in ten is found capable of being mesmerized, to a greater or less extent.—N. Y. Journal.

An Ancient Cannon.

One of the oldest cannon in existence has just been fished out of the bottom of the Thames river near Twickenham. This archaic cannon is 28 inches long and about 4½ inches in diameter, being made of bars of iron strengthened with hoops of iron. It was made with one of our modern "peacemakers," as they are ironically called, one of these old cannon is a mere child's toy. They were originally mounted on rude blocks of wood, fitting in a sort of socket. Their discharge was a very undecided feature in their operation, and the death-dealing articles fired at random from their mouths were round stones and such clubs of iron.

The Automaton chess player is a wonderful thing. It plays a perfect game inside its limitations. But in its routine moves, the Automaton is a failure. Much of medical practice is in the same way as the moves of the Automaton at chess. No medical practice need be a failure if it moves outside its limitations.

It is the so-called "incurable" and "hopeless" cases, which come in such numbers to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., for treatment. Men and women with weak lungs, obstinate coughs, emaciated bodies and frequent checks have found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the true elixir of life. "The blood is the life of the body." The increased action of the blood-making glands, and restoring to healthy action the digestive and nutritive organs, places the entire system in a condition to throw off disease. There is no alcohol, opium, or other narcotic, in Golden Medical Discovery.

Mr. Chas. Hinwick, of Lenox, Macomb Co., Mich., says that he does not know what I have taken, but I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery right along. I think it is the best medicine I ever took. I am a school boy. I think I will have to change my name to Dr. Pierce. I have known many cases of faith in them, but you must know that I have been treated in two hospitals and in private practice, and I have had the best of medical advice. So I think your medicine is the only one that will help me.

BRYAN WILL COME.

Hopkinsville Will Get Him This Time Certain.

It Will Be His First Appearance In This City in a Set Speech.

The local campaign committee has been given positive assurances that one of Col. Bryan's speeches in the Second District will be in Hopkinsville.

Democrats are delighted over the success of their efforts to get the national leader to visit this county. Goebel and Blackburn will come the last week in September and it is probable Bryan's date will be about the middle of October.

The state campaign committee recognizes Christian county as a doubtful county and it will be made a battle-ground and no effort will be spared to carry the county for the state and legislative ticket.

The visit of Goebel and Blackburn will be made an all day affair with an out-of-doors speaking in some suitable place near town.
